REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

For State Treasurer
GEN. JOHN C. SMITH,

of Marion county.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction
CHARLES T. STRICKTON, of Jefferson county.

For Congressman—11th District JONATHAN H. ROWELL,

of McLean county.

The English seem to have made short work of the Egyptian forts yesterday.SOMEBODY will get hurt, or possibly killed, if these steam road engines are permitted to cavor around the streets, frightening horses and causing runways. They should not be permitted on the streets.THE nomination of Gen. Kueffner, by the Republicans of the Belleville district, in all probability ends the congressional career of Hon. Wm.
R. Morrison, who has represented the old Seventeenth district for ten years past. So mote it be.THE Cincinnati Gazette: "When an independent paper with Democratic leanings, so well informed as the Boston Herald, declares that the Democratic party in Maine is played out, there are good reasons for expecting a Republican victory in September."There are loud and numerous complaints from citizens of the neighborhood concerning the boisterous conduct of the hoodlums and roughs who congregate in the vicinity of that "forerunner of business" in the fourth ward. One peaceable citizen was forced off the sidewalk on his way home last night, and vilified and abused in a shameful manner by the gang whose wishes were considered in the establishment of this "forerunner of business."

Cairo.

The citadel of Cairo, which is now being strengthened and furnished with stores for a garrison of 13,000 men, in expectation for England's threatened attack, stands on a steep, rocky bluff above the city, the relative positions of the two being very much those of the capitol and the lower town of Washington. It was the favorite residence of the famous Egyptian dictator of the last generation, Mohamed Ali Pasha, who strongly fortified it and kept a number of heavy cannon constantly pointed front its walls at the city below to overawe the disaffection which his iron rule inevitably produced.
The walls are still in tolerable pair, and might give some trouble to a force unprovided with heavy siege artillery. Above the ramparts are visible at a considerable distance the tall, slender, white minarets of the Muhammedieh Mosque, built by Mehermet Ali. This is one of the principal ornaments of Cairo, its interior being decorated with richness of coloring unmatched in the world, except, perhaps, by the Alhambra Palace at Grenada.The cigar makers' strike in Milwaukee, which has been running since November, has ended, or is about to end, by the surrender of the strikers who up to this time have been sustained and soothed by an unfaltering trust in the International Union. That body, having contributed upward of $15,000 to the support of its Milwaukee membership while they have been "out," very naturally concludes that the affair has gone far enough, and with draws its support. The Milwaukeefellowes, therefore, are thrown upon their own resources, which are mild, and they must now surrender or starve. It is safe to say they will not starve.A Wisconsin correspondent thus describes two quarreling Representatives: "Mr. Robeson, pleasantly called the 'rotund,' is one of the heaviest men in the house. His width of beam is almost as much as his height. On the other hand, Mr.
Whitthorne is one of the smallest men in the house. Mr. Robeson's voice is ponderous, while that of Mr.
Whitthorne is small and piping, though when one listens to him while he is easily understood. His pronunciation is very distinct, while that of Mr. Robeson is boisterous and rambling. The difference in size between the two legislators suggested the use of the names of David and Goliath."CONGRESSMEN who are anxious to adjourn and get home in order to look after their political interests, will be doomed to disappointment, the prospect now being that the final adjournment will not occur—many members think—until August 15th.
There is a good deal of important business yet to be transacted, or which ought to be transacted, and the debate in both branches over the internal revenue reduction bill, bids fair to widen out into a general discussion of the tariff question with all that the term implies. Over sixty speeches were made when the tariff commission bill was under consideration in the house, and if it should break out again, there is no guessing when it would end.

THE WAR HAS COMMENCED.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—A good deal of interest is felt in to-morrow's developments before the grand jury.
It is a little uncertain whether Walsh the expected witness, will be found.
Walsh is said to have made statements indicating that Senator Kellogg got half of the $20,000 that Contractor Price claims to have paid Brady for "expediting" a star-route in Texas, by which Price made an additional $20,000 yearly.An error has been discovered in the internal revenue bill by the use of the word "monthly" instead of "annual," by which the tobacco tax on dealers is greatly reduced.Nobody now expects an adjournment before August. A flood of amendments to the internal revenue bill is being offered in the senate.
The Democrats say they will have the duty on salt removed before the session closes.Rev. Dr. Hicks says he will pay no attention to Mrs. Scoville's letter, and intimates that he suspects her to be insane.Mr. Bayne, the congressional leader of the Pennsylvania Independents, says he hopes that to-morrow's meeting of the Republican committee in Philadelphia will result in the withdrawal of both tickets, and the substitution of a new one.WASHINGTON, July 11.—An old Illinoian said to night that the appointments announced to day of the Hon.
John T. Stuart, of Springfield, Ill., and Judge William Thomas, of Jacksonville, Ill., as members of a commission to select a site for the government building at Quincy, was a reminder of old times in Illinois.
That Mr. Stuart, who is a cousin of Secretary of War Lincoln, is now 70 years old, was the Whig candidate of the fourth ward.The iron of this degraded situation entered into Arab's thought and feeling, and he determined if possible to bring about a reform. The Khedive was a merciful tool in the hands of his foreign allies, and the only thing to be done was to commence operations with the native army.
This Arab did, and soon became the idol of the army and the hope of the nation.But at this point it is greatly to be feared that Arab's patriotism became mixed up considerably with a large share of personal ambition. He found himself unexpectedly a national leader and possessing almost unlimited power over the wild and half civilized elements around him.
He aspired to do greater things than he at first thought of. He wanted to expel the foreigners and rule over the Khedive. Turkey was appealed to as the nominal sovereign of the country, and the Sultan saw at a glance that in Arab he had a man whom he could make useful for his own hidden purposes. Accordingly, he encouraged and directed the Egyptian leader secretly, while assuming airs of righteous indignation and lofty anger on the surface.
By this maneuver all Europe was deceived at first, and Arab gained time to make his defenses stronger and gather up the resources of the nation for whatever might finally come.
And so the affair went on from one point to another until it reached its present stage.On the part of England and France this war is begun to make Egypt carry out her treaty stipulations.
Years ago, Egypt borrowed a large sum of money of these two nations, and has never repaid any portion of the indebtedness. In fact, the country has had hard work to keep up the interest on the debt, much less can any of the principal. To satisfy and secure the English and French bondholders, Egypt agreed to allow the representatives of these two nations a share of control in the internal administration of her affairs.
And accordingly, two residents on each side took up their permanent abode at the Egyptian court and palace, and virtually exercised a good deal of power over all the public movements of the Khedive. Arab saw this and entered upon a crusade to overthrow it, and the present war is the result.London, July 11.—The special correspondent of the associated press with the British fleet telegraphs as follows:

ON ALLEXANDRIA, July 11 6 p.m.

The British naval officers furnish me the following account of the day's operations:The bombardment began at 7:45 this morning. The ironclads Sun-per, Sultan and Alexander were engaged and totally destroyed Fort Pharos and the light house, the batteries which are at the entrance to the port, and their fire was intended to dominate the approach to the new harbor. The flag ship Invincible and the Penelope took up commanding position inside the reefs, and were assisted from the outside by the Temeraire, and attacked with destructive effect the strong position of Fort Mex, the light house and the shore batteries. The Inflexible was stationed so as to command the lighthouse batteries, Fort Pharos and Fort Mex at the same time, and was thus in position to co-operate with both divisions outside and inside the reefs. The Ironclads will speedily find themselves very badly "soft" by the Sultan.

That wily old Turk is not going to bring any war to his door, and sooner than allow that to be done he will sacrifice Arab and all the rest of the hostiles in a moment. Arab is a brave and well meaning man, but foolhardy and venturesome beyond expression. He is in reality a victim without knowing it.Unless some new and unforeseen European complications set in, the war will be of short duration.The disparity between the two nations and their armies is so great as to be almost ridiculous. Of course, there is no show for Egypt but in submission and the sooner they find that fact and act upon it, the better it will be for them and all parties concerned.

Broke Down.

Dr. McWilliams, the assistant physician at the Washington jail, which Guitau showed off the firmness in his last hours with which he is credited. He says Guitau did not sleep well for a week before the examination, and on that day he at nothing, despite the reports to the contrary. During the morning he broke down into a perfect despair, and it required constant exertion on the part of the guards to keep him up. He was urged to be manful, and some one talked to him continually to divert his mind. He faltered at the top of the scaffold, and did not stumble, as reported. Dr. McWilliams further says that he wavered excessively in reading his prayer, and he heard him catching his breath and struggling to control it. It was dreadful to hear him. Evidently he was in great agony.Hoop Skirts, Bustles,

An Imported Woman.

On yesterday afternoon a strange woman created something of a sensation in front of the second ward school house by acting as if she was a victim of sunstroke.

The women of the neighborhood were attracted to the scene out of curiosity and sympathy, and finding a suffering sister they hastily procured a great variety of remedies and dosed the stranger liberally until a physician arrived. Finally it was determined that the stranger was a pauper, and it is believed that she was sent here from some neighboring country. The woman was not prostrated by the heat.
She is subject to fits and had several severe ones before Overseer Newell arrived and took charge of the case. The woman, whose name is unknown, was removed to the temporary poor house where she will be taken care of until the place from where she came is learned.

Accepted.

At an adjourned meeting of the board of directors of the Decatur Y. M. C. A. held last night to consider the resignation of I. J. Davis, tendered on Monday evening July 3, the board accepted it and unanimously adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, That we, the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. of Decatur, while accepting the resignation of Brother I. J.
Davis as general secretary, hereby express our continued friendship for him and an intimate acquaintance with him as an able man, a patient worker and an earnest Christian.

Another meeting of the board was appointed for Friday evening at 8 o'clock to select new committees and arrange for the care of the rooms until such vacancy is filled.

25 to 14.

The members of the Book-Keepers and Cigar Makers Nine crossed bats at the Reds' grounds last evening at 4 o'clock, enthusiastic audience. Seven hard fought umpire, and the game ended with a score of 25 to 14 in favor of the Book-Keepers, several of whom are old players of the McPherson days. The "scraps" captured several goose eggs and the ink-slingers got one.

ered during the day about 1000 bushels, for which he received one dollar per bushel.
Each bushel weighed full 60 pounds, and every grain appeared to be perfect. Mr.

active member of the farm work as he is in his side enterprise of making brick by steam.

PROTECTION.

Dr. Goltra's Daughter.

One day this week, Dr. L. V. Goltra, formerly a practicing physician at Blue Mound, but now a resident of Springfield, came to Decatur, accompanied by his little daughter, who is in the fourth year of her age. Passing along Merchant street, the doctor stepped in at Latz & Wise's music parlor, in Central Block, and while there little Miss Goltra astonished and entertained an appreciative audience by playing several popular airs on both piano and organ. She played the accompaniment in a manner that engaged the special attention of old players, and she was pronounced what she really is, a prodigy as a musician. The illiterate player was not in the least embarrassed. No wonder her parents are proud of her and afford her every possible opportunity to touch the ivory keys with her fingers, which are less than two inches in length.

The Charges Not Sustained.

The heresy trial of Rev. James Miller, pastor of the M. E. Church at Urbana, was called on Tuesday morning in that place. Rev. W. H. Moore, of Normal, was prosecutor, and Rev. M. D. Hawes, of Bloomington, defended. The committee of investigation were English, Musgrave, Best, Whitlock and Wylder. There was no testimony offered, and as a consequence the committee could not do otherwise than find the following, which was read:

We, the committee called together to consider the charge and specifications preferred against Rev. J. Miller by A. B. Brattin and others, after full and impartial investigation, there being no evidence produced before us in support of the said bill of charges, hereby and the same not sustained.

George Mackie presided at the Young Men's meeting at Y. M. C. A. Chapel last evening.

thor of a fine article in the Western Educational Journal for July, entitled
